Failure to obtain Kitron AB's prior written approval constitutes a material breach under the terms of the purchase order agreement. Supplier also accepts to fully indemnify Kitron AB from any and all claims, losses, and damages that result from said breach. Kitron AB reserves the right to reject any and all requests for approval, and may require additional inspection activities for verification and testing of products necessary to assure the authenticity of purchased product(s), including visual inspection, traceability and documentation verification.

All tests and inspections shall be performed in accordance with clearly delineated accept/reject criteria. Tests and inspections shall be performed by qualified personnel that have been trained concerning types and means of electronic parts counterfeiting and how to conduct effective product authentication. The seller shall keep records evidencing test and inspection performed and conformance of the product to specified acceptance criteria. Kitron AB may report any or all occurrences of counterfeit parts, as appropriate, to internal organizations, customers, government reporting organizations, industry supported reporting programs, and/or proper criminal investigative authorities.

If counterfeit parts are delivered to Kitron AB, such items will be impounded. The seller shall promptly replace such items with items acceptable to Kitron AB and the seller will be liable for all costs relating to impoundment, removal, replacement and production stop. Kitron AB may turn such items over to Norwegian and/or to US Governmental authorities for investigation and reserves the right to withhold payment for the items pending the results of the investigation.
